PICKLED PEPPERS

The harvest time of our peppers, which are grown with the right agricultural practices as a result of the coordinated work of our contracted farmers and agricultural engineers, is July, August, September and October. Our peppers, which are carefully collected from the field and brought to our factory within hours, are meticulously selected for you and the fermentation stage is started. After the fermentation is completed, our pickles are kept in our warehouses to be packed according to the customer's request.

You can contact us for 12 types of peppers that we actively produce. If you share your requests with us other than the packaging written below, we can use the requested packaging.

PICKLED CUCUMBERS

The harvest time of our cucumbers, which are grown with the right agricultural practices as a result of the coordinated work of our contracted farmers and agricultural engineers, is June, July, August and September. Our cucumbers, which are carefully collected from the field and brought to our factory within hours, are meticulously selected for you according to their size and the fermentation stage is started. After the fermentation is completed, our pickles are kept in our warehouses to be packed according to the customer's request.

We can pack our cucumbers, which are separated according to their caliber, in whole or chopped form (flat and crinkled) according to customer demand. If you share your requests with us other than the packaging written below, we can use the requested packaging.

MIXED PICKLES

As a result of the coordinated work of our contracted farmers and our agricultural engineers, we ferment our vegetables grown with the right agricultural practices in the most hygienic conditions in our facility. Then we slice our pickles into desired shapes to be used in mixed pickles. We prepare delicious mixed pickles by blending them in the proportions you want.

Our most active mixed pickle is Giardiniera and the vegetables it contains are cauliflower, carrot, cucumber and celery. If you share your requests with us other than the packaging written below, we can use the requested packaging.
